It's Just An Old Fountain . . .

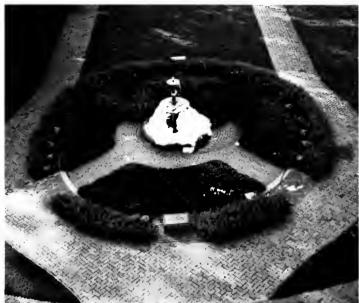

It's just an old moss green fountain, not too fancy, quietly gurgling and splashing its sparkling waters, oblivious to its surroundings. To the outsider, this fountain—one of the first things visitors of Peace College see — would seem unimpressive and unimportant. However, this impression could be no further from the truth. What seems like a mere fountain is actually the foundation of precious memories for every Peace girl. In fact, this special fountain, in many ways, represents every Peace girl.

Like laughter bubbling over from a beautiful girl, suds surprisingly fill the fountain when lively girls decide it's time for its bath. These same girls may traditionally "dunk" a friend in the fountain for a shocking birthday present, the ultimate symbol of friendships which develop while at Peace. At times, the fountain freezes, causing sharp icicles to be suspended from its basins. In the same sense, when times are tough and people are cold, we, too, "freeze up" and develop sharp edges. But soon, the warmth comes and the glistening waters joyfully splash again. Perhaps the fountain best represents the unity shared by Peace girls, for it is around the fountain that girls join together at Christmas to sing carols and at Graduation to sing the Alma Mater.

Although girls come and go from Peace, the old green fountain always remains, keeping a part of each girl forever. And as the waters of the fountain continuously flow, memories of each girl continuously grow.

Main . . . The Heart of Peace College!

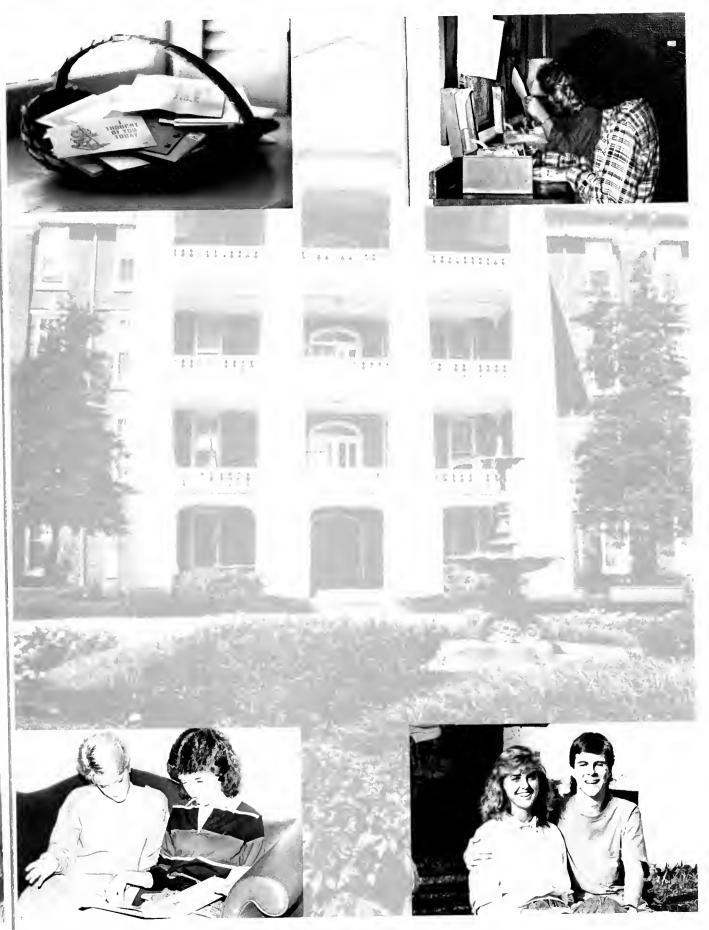

he first two years of one's college career are the most important and formative. Peace has always been known for its students' development during these two years. One former administrator of Peace commented, "The school commends itself to those seeking a school for their daughter for its home-like arrangements, its constant attention to the moral and physical welfare of the students, its healthful surroundings, and its superior faculty." Peace prides itself on its family atmosphere. As soon as a student arrives at Peace, she feels this spirit of friendship and love.

How many of you remember the sophomores struggling to carry your tons of luggage up two or three flights of stairs? Or, a gift from your "Big sister" waiting for you in your dorm room, just when you were beginning to feel homesick? What about sitting on the balcony, talking with friends while rating the guys as they came to pick up their favorite "Peace" girl? Or, standing on front campus or Main balconies to be serenaded by "frat" pledges? Main will always hold dear memories in every Peace girl's heart:

In the heart of Carolina.
'Neath its skies of blue,
Stands our noble Alma Mater,
Glorious to view . . .

ads and Fashions change every year, but one thing remains the same — Peace girls stay on top of the styles! Picking out the perfect outfit for a night out on the town can be a frustrating and crucial task, requiring much style and taste. Dressed to kill (or at least to find a cute "dude"), the typical fashion plate is seen in stirrup pants and a "HOT" paisley shirt.

However, this sense of style does not end when the sun rises. Our trendy friends stumble into their 8:15 classes in innovative outfits chosen with only one eye open. This casual fashion begins with a sweatshirt boasting one's favorite fraternity or A.C.C. College, followed by a pair of personalized or stolen boxer shorts. The outfit is not complete, however, until a pair of high top tennis shoes and a "SWATCH" watch — the more unusual, the better — are added.

Yet the most important element of fashion is individuality. Although Peace girls are infamous for sharing clothes, each outfit looks new and exciting on each girl. The reason why — these girls have STYLE!

WRITING IS A BREEZE AT PEACE

Writing Institute got off to a lively start on July 28, 1985. With 76 students and 6 faculty members, the adventure in writing began. The Director, Dr. Janet Wester, laughingly referred to the twoweek course, for which students receive two hours of college credit, as an intensive, fast-paced experience "somewhere between a quality summer camp and a military boot camp." By August 10, when tired Peace girls went home for a week's break before beginning their fall semester, there was general agreements that, though the work had been hard and the schedule had been rigorous, much had been accomplished.

Wearing their own special tee-shirts testifying that they had survived the Institute, 76 "college-wise" students bid new friends "Adieu" but made eager plans for reunion on August 18.

Perhaps, however, what the Institute meant can best be described by one of the students. Nan Swertfeger says, it "prepared me for college in many ways. I had the opportunity to meet all the Peace English professors and get to know them. I also met some of my very best friends that I will ever have. Most of all, I learned a lot about writing that should help me a great deal in years to come."

s freshmen, we had only just begun to grow. But, in two years each one of us has blossomed, much like the roses we carry at gruduation. The years have had thorns, and many times we've wondered, "Are the rewards really worth the struggle?" But on that glorious day in May, when the beautiful white gown and long white gloves are donned, we know this moment was worth every priceless second.

As freshmen, we had only just begun to love. But, in our two years, each one of us has developed friendships which distance will never sever. We have loved honestly and dearly, as we never thought ourselves capable. Many of us have learned to love ourselves. And on that anxiously awaited graduation day, we are surrounded by those dearest to us, and we realize, "Yes, we have loved!"

As freshmen, we had only just begun to live. Naive and insecure, we were forced to stand on our own two feet. We found out who we really were and what unlimited potential each individual has.

And on that day of overflowing emotion, we realize that our lives are in our hands. We have only ourselves and the part of Peace College that we will always have with us. And as we graduate, we know that, once again

We've only just begun!

Ve've all heard the old saying, "If walls could talk, what would they say?" At Peace it might sound something like this:

"Uh-Oh, they've been shopping."

"Yep — looks like somebody's got Mom's credit cards."
"Gosh, she's already got so many clothes she has to keep them all over the floor!"

"Look, a new poster."
"Ouch! Don't they know they're not supposed to use push pins on us?"
"Boy, would you look at that poster — what a body!"
"Listen. They even got some new tapes."

"You know, we walls may not be able to dance, but shaking like we do when those stereos get cranked is the next best thing!"

"That's for sure. Over the years, the music's changed, but our shaking hosn't!'

"Neither have the girls, really. I mean, each one is special and unique, but they all share the same laughter and tears; they all complain when their neighbors tell them to be quiet; they all keep erratic hours, then can't understand why they're tired . . .

"And they all gassip over popcorn!"
"And fight over which "SOAP" is the best . . ."

"But, most importantly, they all share love with one another . . .

"And a certain quality that makes them all special Peace girls!'

So I hope that I can always remember

Administration

As we look back on memories of Peace College, we remember the Faculty and Administration with a smile. The Faculty and Administration are the bockbone of the College. Because they care about each student, the time we spend here is special. Most of the faculty and administration not only know our names, but also know something about each of us.

With their help and support, each girl finds her place at Peace. Even though we do not always express our appreciation for their help, we are grateful to know that someone cares how we are doing and is willing to assist us in any way they can.

President Frazier supports all the College's activities. He not only finds time to do his own complex job, but he also finds time to attend the home basketball games, plays, and concerts. Often he expresses his appreciation for our efforts by sending us encouraging words or goodies.

Dr. S. David Frazier

Dr. Staples is the one who tries to help us put forth our best efforts in academics. She is there to hear our troubles with courses and, sometimes, to call us in and encourage us to work harder for success in course work.

Dean Edwards and Liz Thurston spend a great deal of time planning activities to get the students involved. They work with the Student Government and the Recreation Association to plan such events as the Fall Dance, Faculty Action, Spring Fling, Big Sister/Little Sister events, and intramurals.

Mr. Eugene Lilley, Business Manager Mrs. Cynthia Wyott, Director of Admissions

Mrs. Jane Kanipe, Director of Financial Aid and Assistant to the President Mrs. Madra Britt, Registrar

Ms. Cynthia Ball, Director of Development Mrs. Jennifer Spiker, News Director

Ms. Janice Edwards

With other faculty and Administration members' help, events at Peace provide cherished memories. Dean Edwards, for example, often finds time to interact with the students by breaking out her shorts and tennis shoes for a game of basketball.

Dr. Helen C. Staples

Our time at Peace becomes more special because of the care and concern of these dedicated people. With their support and their expertise, we grow and mature in ways of which we can be proud. Thanks to them each Peace girl finds her own special place at Peace College.

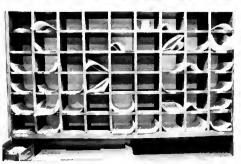

Mrs. Polly Flowe, Alumnae Director Ms. Liz Thurston, Director of Student Activities

Mrs. Sally Davis, Assistant Director of Admissions Ms. Mona Hall, Admissions Counselor

Mrs. Cindy Seymour, Admissions Assistant

Faculty

The faculty of Peace College is a unique and special group of people. They genuinely care about the students as individuals and about each student's progress in their class. The professors offer office hours so students can feel free to call upon their teachers for additional help. This individual attention is what makes the time at Peace College a special period of learning.

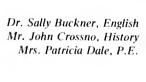

Mrs. Nancy Adamcyzk, P.E. Dr. Jean Bauso, English Mrs. Margaret Black, Music

Dr. Emilie de Luca, French Dr. Anne Fountain, Spanish Ms. Martha Harrison, Business

Because the classes are relatively small, students are able to ask questions freely in class. For instance, in math, students do not feel intimidated to stop the professor and ask questions. A great deal of class time is spent answering students' questions. The Biology classes at Peace are strictly lecture, but the students are able to ask questions. Lab also allows students to expand their knowledge.

Ms. Carolyn Parker, Art Mr. Archie Ritchie, Math Ms. Adair Robertson, Math

The Fine Arts Department at Peace College has a lot to offer students. Ms. Virginia Vance, head of the Music Department, devotes a great deal of time to each of her students. Mr. Smith, skilled in voice and instruction, is also an asset to the Music Department. For students interested in piano, Mrs. Black is devoted to instruction of Piano. The English and Drama department of Peace also provides excellent opportunities for students. The students complete a Liberal Arts education at Peace by looking at Religion in a historical view point.

Mr. Richard Rottschaefer, Drama Mr. James Smith, Music Dr. Bes Spangler, English

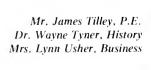

Mrs. Linda Stevens, Business Dr. Robert Sturdivant, Religion Rev. George A. Thomas, Religion

Besides having an excellent faculty to enhance each student's stay at Peace, Peace has other services that provide excellent guidance. The Writing Center is a lifesaver for every freshman doing her first paper. The English faculty provide their assistance to all students who want help in all aspects of paper-writing. Peace students spend a great amount of time studying psychology, biology, chemistry, math, and English in the library. The librarians are very helpful for students doing research.

Mrs. Judy Williams, English Mr. James Wolfe, Biology

Not Pictured Mrs. Helen Phillips Mr. Paul King Mrs. Barbara Hawkins Mrs. Helen Phillips The Student Services deportment at Peace assists the students in many ways. Every student visits the infirmary at least once a semester for a cold or sore throat. The nurses are always concerned about the students' welfare, and they continually check-up on the students. While the infirmary takes care of the students' health, the maintenance department tends to the health of the physical plant. The maintenance staff fixes all things that Peace girls can break. The Counseling Center guides students with the many important decisions they face while at Peace.

Mrs. Cindy Grant, Nurse Mr. Tom Martin, Director of Food Services Mr. Larry Griffin, Accountant

Mr. Paul Johnson, Supervisor of Maintenance Mrs. Mary Vurgas, Director of Housekeeping Mrs. Cassie O'Neal, Assistant Manager of Food Services

The Secretarial Staff at Peace is truly the lifeline of Peace College. They take care of the behind-the-scene aspects that regulate the functions of Peace. Each office has a secretarial staff that carries out the duties necessary for that office. There are secretaries in Admissions, in the Registrar's office, in the Business office, in the Dean's office, and in President Frazier's office who handle the paper work that students received before they came to Peace and throughout their stay here.

Secretarial Staff

Ms. Pamela Bond, Secretary to the President Mrs. Verne Futrell, Assistant Accountant

Mrs. Nancy Kirby, Secretary to Alumnae Director Mrs. Rebecca Leggett, Secretary to Business Manager Mrs. Rachel Manning, Secretary to Dean of Students

Mrs. Hope Sawyer, Admissions Secretary Mrs. Kathy Prince, Secretary to Registrar Mrs. Cindy Stilwell, Secretary to Academic Dean The switchboard workers handle all incoming calls to Peace. A visitor can always tell when it is a holiday at Peace because the switchboard is bombarded with flowers. Every Peace girl impatiently waits a call from the switchboard saying that she has a caller. The security guards not only issue parking tickets, but also patrol the campus, making students' stay at Peace a safe one. Students buy miscellaneous items in the bookstore that gets them from one weekend to the next.

Ms. Karen Haulman, Switchboard Mrs. Dorothy Casey, Switchboard

Staff

Mr. Neal Andrews, Security and Safety Ms. Mary Hill, Assistant Director of Housekeeping Mrs. Sallie Goad, Bookstore

The Resident Directors of Peace have a lot of responsibility. They greet each incoming student with a smile and a helping hand. The Resident Directors have to make sure that all their girls are in on time every night. They make sure that the students unplug everything before going home on holidays. Resident Directors also assist the Resident Assistants with any problems they face. When students have work orders to be turned in, the Resident Directors have to report the problem to maintenance.

Polly Flowe has the responsibility of directing the alumanae affairs. One of the fun activities that she heads up is the Peace Phonothon to encourage annual giving from alumnae. Students have the opportunity to help Peace by not only asking alumnae for pledges but also updating alumnae files. There are two fun-filled weeks of phone calling in which the students compete for the greatest number of pledges and the largest number of promised dollars.

"Blessed are they who have the gift of making friends, for it one of God's best gifts. It involves many things, but above all, the power of going out of one's self, and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in another." Friendships made here usually last a lifetime, and what is a better way to start a friendship than to live with someone?

Giants Serve Up A Winning Season

The Peace College Fall tennis team up an impressive 20-8 overall record for their 1985 season. The Giant squad posted this outstunding record by being composed of some of the best female tennis players within North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, and Georgia. The squad consisting of five freshmen and three sophomores served up a magnificent record that is sure to be one of the greatest in Peace College history. The determination of this strong-willed squad made them overpower opponents such as East Tennessee State, East Carolina, Appalachian State, Raford University, and Davidson College. The tennis team consisted of talented young women such as Anna Coleman, Kim Pennington, Kim Vaughan, Nita Smith, Elizabeth Lutz, Katie Dukeshire, Tracy Fogarty, and Sharon Kidney. With a line up as strong as this, the Peace College Fall tennis team was a definite challenge to all of their opponents.

Also, to maintain the prestige of tennis abilities, the team finished sixth in the 1985 NJCAA Women's Tennis Chumpionship in Ocala, Florida. This squad developed their winning season under the leadership of fourth-year coach, Ruth Hopkins.

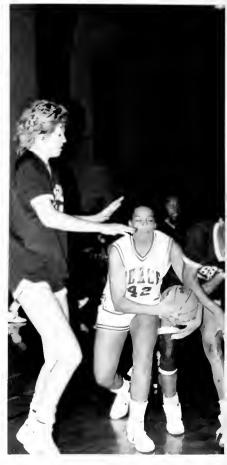

Giants Soar To New Heights

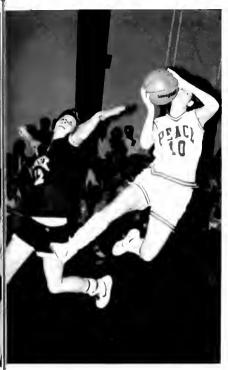

The Peace Giants, led by five experienced sophomores and six freshmen, opened the 1985-'86 season strong, rolling off sixteen wins ufter an initial loss. Through hard work at strenuous practices and enthusiasm during the gomes, the team defeated 18 of their apponents while falling only to three.

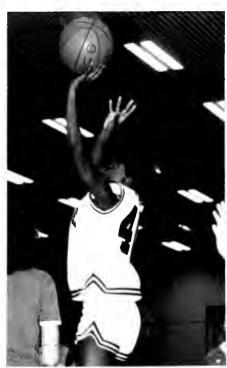

Three starters returning from last year's squad are Laura Stonley, Jeonnie Bierce, and Jeonne Marvel. These three girls are key leaders and are expected ta provide a lift for their teammates. In addition to these sophomores, twins, Karen and Sharon Bond, return this year to provide speed in the back court. Combined with these sophomores are two freshmen starters: LaTanya Clemons and Kim Kelly, and four more strong, experienced freshmen: Karen Copeland, Toni Lynn Hughes, Korina Sanders, and Jenny Steele. It is evident from watching these young stars play that Peace definitely doesn't lack depth; Coach Tilley utilizes play from all of his squad. Last year, Coach Tilley stated, "Positive strides have been made this year, and the future of Peace College basketball laaks very bright." Peace basketball is definitely much brighter and has soared to new heights.

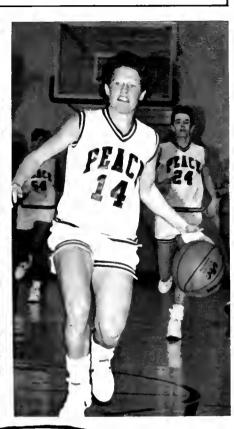

CHEERLEADERS

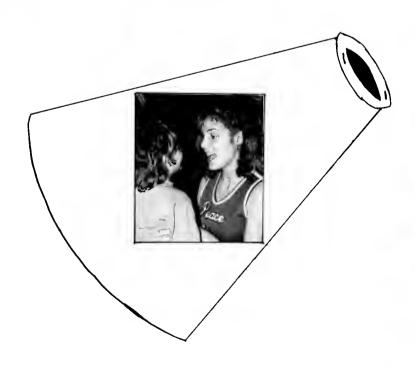

We've Got SPIRIT!

Although this year's squad was small in number, only five members, they were still able to elevate spirits and rally the crowd during basketball games. The squad was limited to ground stunts but engaged in some energetic cheers under the leadership of the captain of the team.

As in previous years, the cheerleaders were required to dress out and attend the Giants' home basketball games. The girls also energetically boosted the spirits of the crowd and cheered the basketball team on to numerous victories.

Dancing The Night Away

The Peace Pacers are a performing jozz troupe and ore a part of the Department of Physical Education. Membership into the group is through audition only. The group's purpose is the development of competent performers through studying dance in every form and through a variety of performances during the year.

Let's Play

One of the most enthusiastic groups at Peace College is the Intramurals Association in which the officers emphasize the fact that those who can't play make the games the most fun. The intramurals at Peace offer a great deal of fun and excitement as well as togetherness. The activities of this year's program included everything from softball, UNO, basketball, badminton, Ping-pong, tennis, soccer, bowling, spades, and volleyball to the adventures of hitting the ski slopes. So, by examples such as these, one can see that the Student Body has a lot to get involved in.

Most of the sports in intramurals are dorm competition, but the team sports are always a favorite of the students. Some of the Annual Intramural Activities included the Annual Powder-Puff Football games during Parents' Weekend and the Hounted Run. The powder-puff game ended in a usual sophomore win. The Hounted Run took place in October, 1985 and was a huge success this year. The participants included the student body as well as several athelite Faculty-staff members, and even Dr. Bauso's darling baby daughter was strolled through the 2.5 mile track. The participants of the race received t-shirts with the ever-popular intramurals monsters, which were designed by Tanya Quick. First place went to Lorinna Sanders, while Cyndi Davis took last place. With exciting experiences as these throughout the year, the entire Peace family can get involved!

PEACE STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Need a helping hand?

"Could I have your attention, please? Our meeting will now come to order," Lori states, as a room full of sleepy officers chatter about the previous weekend. Thus begins the Tuesday morning student government meetings in the boardroom. "Genevu, do you have any news? How about you, Dana? Kathy, is there any PSRA news? How about the big F-U-N badminton tournament?"

The Peace Student Government Association (PSGA) encourages student involvement in the various campus activities. Student involvement is one of the major reasons for success at Peace; the more students who become involved, the closer the classes become. During PSGA meetings, which anyone may attend, the student leaders, along with Dean Edwards and Liz Thurston, discuss different activities which affect both the students and the College. Student government sponsors such activities as freshman orientation, the Fall Dance, the Christmas Chain, Stunt Night, the Spring Fling, the Spring Dance, and the newest activity, Fall Fest, a week of class competitions before the Fall Dance, which student government hopes will hecome a tradition at Peace.

PEACE STUDENT CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

PSCA cabinet

An unusual scene; it must not be Wednesday.

Lisa and Jeanna discuss PSCA business.

The Peace Student Christian Association, an organization of fun-filled fellowship, encourages the development of Christian character among all members of the Peace group. This organization provides students with the opportunities for worship on compus and provides students with what is equally important, opportunities for Christian service in the off-campus community. Along with the P.S.C.A., the administration and P.S.G.A. help maintain Christian standards of living in all phases of college life.

Some of the ways the P.S.C.A. helps promote this Christian character are with the following activities: PEANUT WEEK, which creates new friendships; STUDENT-FACULTY Picnics, which strengthen student-faculty relationships; VOLUNTEER PROGRAMS, which provide students with the opportunities to help "outsiders"; BIBLE STUDIES, which creates a better understanding of the Bible; and most importantly, the Big Sister/Little Sister Program, in which a sophomore becomes a caring Big Sister to one or more freshmen. Also, the P.S.C.A. provides students with the opportunity for worship and service. Some service and worship projects are Thanksgiving Baskets. Christmas Toys, Holy Week, Religious Enrichment Week, and Holiday Condlelight and Communion services.

As President and Vice President of this organization, we have grown closer to God, and we hope that we have encouraged others to become better Christians. Along with the help from the supporting cabinet, we hope that the P.S.C.A. has gained respect from students and faculty. Our main goal this year was to make the P.S.C.A. one of the best organizations at Peace College. For this reason, our motto will be "IN ORDER TO ACHIEVE, YOU HAVE TO BELIEVE!"

Thanks to all of you for making the P.S.C.A. what we would like it to be.

Love, Geneva Carlton Lisa Lovvorn

GO, Stan. GO!!!

PARTICIPATE! DON'T SPECTATE! RECREATE! ASSOCIATE! The Peace Student Recreation Association (PSRA) sponsors different intramurals throughout the year. This year the BIG rivalry in softball was between Ross and Main, cuptured here by Jenny Gibson.

Championship Chatter It was the final softball game. The girls were filled with glee. The teams to meet were Ross and Main. Both hoped for victory. The girls from Ross let out a cheer. To know they'd have last bat. The girls from Main were filled with fear. Ross was sure of that. The first three innings quickly passed. And neither team could score. Then finally in the fourth at last. Ross hit the ball and more. As Main went up to bat they knew This chance would be their last, The tension mounted, grew and grew, They had to make the runs and fast. Main quickly brought the score to nine, And Ross began to sweat. But then three outs gave them the sign. They hadn't lost it yet. With two outs and bases full. Main knew they had to hold. The batter on her hat did pull, Looking mighty bold. The pitcher pitched the ball with flair And made the batter swing. And as the ball sailed throught the air, A win for Ross did ring. Now Main I know that's not quite right, But give a poet her dues. Its no fun of truth to write. Especially when you lose.

Kathy, are YOU afraid of the Killer Hill?

Honor Court

A famous author once said, "Folsehood is cowardice, truth is courage." This statement could not be more evident in a college community; going away to college for anyone allows new freedoms, but responsibility comes with any new freedom. This newly found freedom is often difficult for freshmen to deal with. One of the freedoms present at Peace is the choice of honesty; the Honor System, which is an essential part of life here at Peace, is based on the personal integrity of each student. The success of our Honor System is the responsibility of every girl on campus; this responsibility cannot be taken lightly.

The success of the Honor System on a campus such as ours relies upon each individual's character. Honesty must be a daily occurrence, not just in front of the faculty or administration, but in the classroom, on the basketball and tennis courts, in the dorm, or even off campus. Walter Lippmann, in A Preface to Morals, states this idea well:

He has honor if he holds himself to an ideal of conduct though it is inconvenient, unprofitable, or dangerous to do so.

Each individual's personal ethics dictate the manner in which she reacts to everyday situations. Reacting in an honorable manner can create conflicts with friends, but making the right decision gives one pride.

The responsibility to uphold and cherish the ideals of the Peace honor code is ours the moment we say our pledge and sign our names.

The Sophomore officers have won the trust and admiration of their classmates, who depend upon them to take care of the class business and to represent them well. Sophomore officers take special care to make the year special for those whose time Peace is speeding by so fast.

Officers must maintain a 2.0 grade point average in order to hold their positions. Eligibility is determined at the end of each semester. Usually, class officers are chosen from serious, diligent students who are happy to serve their friends and to look after their interests.

Raygina Lentz — President

Freshmen Class Officers

The Freshman officers are students who have made a name for themselves in a short while, for they are elected during their first semester at Peace. They are eager to provide leadership and do their jobs with great zest. These girls are gregarious and energetic and are usually well on their way to other important leadership roles.

Freshmen officers have a big jab in looking after the interests of their class, especially in the many contests between saphomores and freshmen. Yet they keep class spirit high and give all activities their best.

To be eligible for membership, a student must have an overall GPA of 3.0, maintain a B in Spanish, and be genuinely interested in the Hispanic culture, Members sponsor an annual Christmas party and the International Food Festival. The members enjoy periodic dining at Spanish restaurants in the area.

Phi Theta Kappa is a National Honor Fraternity for Junior Colleges. Peace College's chapter is the Gamma Phi chapter. Tapping ceremonies are held semi-annually to invite into membership those full-time students in the upper ten per cent of the class who show good citizenship qualities. Second semester freshmen must have a 3.7 grade point average and sophomores a 3.5 cumulative GPA to be considered for induction. A formal ceremony is held in the spring to induct all newly invited members. To remain in good standing, members must maintain a 3.3 GPA. The members of Phi Theta Kappa offer a free tutorial service to fellow Peace students.

Marshals

The marshals are the nine students who have the highest grade point average. They are chosen in the second semester of their freshman year, based on work complete during their first semester at Peace. The marshals serve at such functions as baccalaureate, graduation, and convocation.

Daughters And Granddaughters

The Daughters and Granddaughters Club is sponsored by Mrs. Polly Flowe. Under her leadership, the club enjoys many activities which include raising money for the scholarship fund and decorating the Christmas tree in Main parlor. Members include those Peace students whose mothers, grandmothers, or great-grandmothers graduated from Peace.

Resident Assistants

"Everyone please take your seat!"

Being a Resident Assistant requires commitment and hard work, but it can be one of the mose rewarding positions on Peace campus. Each Resident Assistant is in charge of approximately twenty-five girls. Her job is to pass information to these girls, handle any floor problems that arise, and maintain a quiet atmosphere. Resident Assistants are also responsible for organizing activities such as the Dating Seminar, 'orm parties, and educational programs. One advantage of being an RA is the opportunity to create new friendships. Also, the group gets to know RA's from nearby campuses, and they get more involved in Peace activities. Although the responsibilities can be quite a burden, the girls' appreciation, expressed either through words or actions, makes it all worthwhile.

BIBLE STUDY

Bible Study is a group of students who meet once a week for a time of fellowship. The group meetings consist of discussions about problems and concerns which the students may have, and also discussions of prayer concerns and misunderstandings which the students share with each ather. Blood Drive

The Blood Drive at Peace College, arganized by the Peace Callege Christion Association, is an important event hecause it allows students to danate their blood to the Red Crass, and help to sove many lives. The Red Cross was in much need of blaad, and because of the generosity and caring of Peace students, the greatest amount of blaad was donated this year.

Circle K

Circle K is the largest collegiate service organization. Its membership is open to all college students who are willing to provide assistance to the surrounding community. Members seek to help those less fortunate families who need assistance and cheer. At Thanksgiving, Circle K collects canned food for the needy. At Christmas, Circle K collects toys to delight and suprise many small children whose stockings may otherwise be bare on Christmas morning. Members find joy in being of service to others. They also enjoy participation in dinners and conferences for Circle K members.

"Circle K, small but productive."

Chamber Singers

Choir

With music so ably directed by Mr. James Smith, the Peace College choir sing for Chapel services each Wednesday. In their bright green robes and with their cheerful, well-trained voices, they add much to the worship service. On special occasions. certain choir members will perform solo numbers for everyone's enjoyment.

Mr. Smith, Choirmaster
The choir always ready with a song.

Chamber Singers

The Chamber Singers are fourteen talented students who must audition before they win a coveted place in the group. Many of these girls are at Peace on a music scholarship. Each week they give a great deal of time to practicing and learning new music.

In the first semester they usually perform at least once at the First Presbyterian Church in Raleigh. During second semester they journey to other churches in North Carolina to share their music. They also sing special numbers at graduation.

The Chambers sometimes visit convalescent homes to bring cheer to the sick. At other times they may sing for weddings in Peace Chapel or at special activities in the community.

Peace Times

The Pence Times Staff

The Peace Times newspaper underwent many drastic, but advantageous changes this year, and became a magazine in style, content, and layout. It also became more personal and creative. We decided to write about people, places, and things that apply solely to Peace College students, faculty, and staff, yet keep our readers in touch with the world and society as well. Like the newspaper, the staff was reconstructed by changing from four editors doing everything for the newspaper, to five editors specializing in different areas, but unifying and agreeing on the product in the end. For example, I was the Editor-in-Chief, which means that I was responsible for making assignments and making sure that all work was completed and went smoothly. Dawn Dillon and Leigh Brock were the layout editors, and they constructed the design for every newspaper. Susan Riddle and Donna Edwards were the copy editors who collected, screened, edited, and returned copy to be published. We also had photographers Judith Steen and Sandy Stroud, innumerable writers, and Tammy Taylor, our artist. But our success would not have been as great if we had not had Mrs. Jenny Spiker, the News Director, to guide, advise, and add her imput to every meeting, decision, and paper. She taught us the skills that were necessary for efficient, interesting, and professional product and allowed us to experiment with our own creative styles.

Prism

The Prism staff gives Peace College students an opportunity to grow through creative writing. The staff kept busy this year by promoting literary growth on campus through the publication of the college's literary magazine. The Prism staff consists of a group of students who annually publish the magazine, and also plan and host Cider House. The staff sponsors a contest for the submission of entries for publication. For each of the two categories, poetry and prose, three winners are selected for cash prizes. Cider House is an evening of literary enrichment in which one locally renowned guest author reads excerpts from his or her most recent publication. Also, students and faculty members read a few favorite poems or journals.

LOTUS

In addition to enthusiasm and creativity, producing a yearbook takes a great deal of hard work and determination. When the finished product arrives in April, everyone is thankful that all the hard work has paid off, and the yearbook becomes a treasure which will hold special memories for years to come.

No matter how hard the staff members work, the editors always fear not meeting a deadline. Co-editor, Dana Watson, describes this fear in the following poem:

Such Is the Life Desperation hits as the clock Strikes twelve, and the deadline nears. The typewriter keys fly as the keyboard Is ottacked by distraught typists. Frantic editors rush around the room, Checking this and checking that. Layouts lay strown about the Publication room, Both complete and incomplete. "Artboard, we need more artboard!" "Where's the artboard for pages 50 and 51?" "Do we have oll the copy?" "Is there too much copy on page 75?" The quest continues, and the time Draws nearer to five. With the room all in disarray, A panic overcomes the editors As they search for pictures and Picture tobs. Once all the pictures are cropped and Labeled, the tremendous task of Checking the precious contents off begins. "Coptions, where are the captions?" "Where is the box, the tope, the Packaging labels?" "Will we survive?" As the last treasure is laid in the box, The mad dash for the post office Begins, and the editors begin to relax. But, upon arrival, they realize They had not checked the clock -

The time was 5:05.

Although a situation like this one would be an editor's nightmare, we, as a staff, have been fortunate enough not to have it happen. Each of us on the 1986 Lotus staff hopes that this year's book has captured the special memories both in writing and on film, and we hope that when you look back at the yearbook in twenty or fifty years, you will remember the good times we shared at Peace.

Parents' Weekend

As the whirling college life can often cause students to lose touch with home, Peace sets aside a special weekend for the family. Parents' Weekend, Sept. 27-28, gave parents a chance to see their daughter's new home and catch up on the new events in her life. Parents first attended abbreviated classes where professors described the class and how much they enjoy teaching each girl. Then the parents were off to a big lunch, so they could have energy for the rest of the day's excitement, including the big Powder-Puff Football game between the Freshman and Sophomores. The day ended on a perfect note with a variety show featuring not only talented students, but alumni and parents as well! Sunday morning President Frazier hosted a brunch and special chapel services were held. After parents left even a few Sophomores could be seen with tears in their eyes.

Mother-Daughter

Also known as a time for clean rooms and nice clothes, Mother-Daughter weekend is a time for Peace girls to spend with their favorite ladies. Held Nov. 8 & 9, this year's event began with hors d'oeuvres, hugs, and kisses. After dinner Fri. night, mothers und daughters were entertained by the fall production of "Spoon River Anthology." Sat. morning the Peace Pacers performed and a delicious brunch was served, then the afternoon was free for shopping! The weekend then ended the way it began, with hugs and kisses and lots of love.

Father Daughter Weekend

Father-Daughter weekend, an established Peace tradition, is a time when fathers and daughters can come together and experience that loving Peace spirit. The entire weekend is filled with fun activities and is directed towards togetherness. Once the fathers arrive on Saturday, they begin their weekend at Peace with the annual basketball game. The Pence Pacers then delight bath fathers and daughters with their halftime performance. Following the game, there is a great perfarmance of yet another Peace tradition. Stunt Night. But the big event of the weekend is still to come. Later that evening, dinner and dancing is held in Belk Hall. Here dads and daughters can dance the night away. It's weekends like Father-Dnughter that make Peace the special place it is.

Peanut Week

As the switchboard in Main became flooded with small gifts it became evident that "Peanut Week" had officially begun. "Peanut Week", sponsored each year by PSCA, promotes friendships at Peace by becoming secret pals or "peanuts." Students and Faculty members who participate leave small gifts — the more creative the better — for their "peanut". The week also provides friends a chance to leave "gag" gifts in the name of the unsuspecting peanut! However, the truth comes out when the week ends and everyone's peanut is revealed.

Dating Game and

As dating is the number one pastime at Peace College, it is only appropriate that "The Dating Game" is one of the favorite fall activities. Patterned after the TV version, it gives four lucky girls a chance to win a dinner date with contestants from NC State and Campbell.

Another fall dating activity is the dating seminar. The annul question-and-answer session allows Peace girls to find out the man's point-of-view from State guys. Although some of the questions made them blush, the guys were great at proving a new perspective for us

Fall Dance

This year's Fall Dance was a new Peace tradition beginning this year. Priar to the dance, the week is filled with games and class competitions. The combination of the weekly activities and the dance is called Fall Fest. This fall festival breaks the monotony of semester, as well as unites the various classes and entire student body. This year's dance was held in Belk Hall. As the music blared, decked-out couples filed in ane by one. All students seemed to enjoy themselves immensely. Fall Fest was surely a success.

YOURE CONNI 1051

Fall Fest

This year Peace students began a new tradition — Fall Fest: a series of activities to promote unity through competition. Sophomores took the lead by winning "Class Feud," but the Freshmen evened things up the next night in the "Scavenger Hunt." The Sophomores came back at "Baby Olympics" Wed. night and kept the lead due to a tie between the "Freshman Express" and the "Classy Sophomores" at dinner Thurs. night. Thus, the Sophomores took the first Fall Fest championship title! To prove that the 1st annual Fall Fest was a success, everyone celebrated the week's excitement Sat. night at the Fall Dance.

NCSU-UNC

Anyone who has lived in N.C. knows that the higgest, longest-running rivalry is that between NCSU AND UNC. Well, Peace gave fans a chance to prove their loyalty at the annual State-Carolina dinner. Dressed in red or blue, boisterous students filled the air with cheers for their favorite ACC team. As was evident by all the paw and foot prints on girls' faces, Peace College truly is Wolfpack and Tarheel stamping ground!!!

Thanksgiving

This year's Thanksgiving Buffet had an added excitement as it landed on the final night of Fall Fest. Rather than the traditional attire, students dressed according to their classes' theme. Thus, the feast was attended by bagladies and prostitutes from the "Freshman Express" and a group af "Classy Sophomores." The castumes and decorations provided lots of laughter and enthusiasm, creating an atmosphere of good cheer and reminding everyone how much we have for which to be thankful.

STUNT NIGHT

This year's Stunt Night, the annual competition between the Freshman and Sophomore classes, took the audience from inside the wandering minds of Freshmen to the sunny Bahamas with Sophomores. On Stunt Night, each class performs a twenty-minute skit which is judged by Peace alumni on the basis of talent, participation, enthusiasm, and overall performance. This year, the entertaining evening was held Feb. 6, with an encore performance for Father-Daughter enjoyment on Feb. 8.

The Freshman skit, "Mind Over Matter," brought to life the thoughts of freshmen as they "suffer" through Mr. Thomas' Religion class. The role of Mr. Thomas was expertly performed by Lisa Mickschutz, who captured each of his idiosyncrasies in a hilarious manner. As class began, students' thoughts drifted from the Old Testament to more pressing matters — hangovers, hunger pains, dates, concerts, clothing dilemmas, and deficiency slips. Class ended with an outburst of the song "Shout!"

Panicked sophomores rush to the water's edge, deciding they'll try to swim home.

(below) Miami Vice's Don Johnson (played here by Karen Sizemore): I'd wake up to him any day!

The Sophomore skit was one of "Sinking Ships and Soaring Sophomores." As they set sail for their greatly anticipated graduation cruise to the Bahamas, the "graduated" sophomores ran into a terrible storm and were shipwrecked on a deserted island. Led by the hysterical Marta Latta and the calm Jeno Marvel, the group reflected on the future, which they fear they may never see. However, they all decided that as long as they're all together — as friends — they really will be all right. As they fell asleep. Lesa Pittman sang her tear-jerking version of the song "Friends." And when they woke up the next morning, the stranded sailors were saved by "Miami Vice" stars

Because both skits were exceptional the judges took over thirty minutes to decide who the winner was. However, knowing they couldn't call it a tie, they announced that the Sophomores were victorious. Yet the Freshmen were winners too, for it was revealed later that this Freshman production was the best ever. Most importantly, both classes proved that with a little hard work and a LOT of creativity — anyone can be a star!

Big/Lil' Sis

During her two years at Peace, each girl becomes part of a new Peace family. The first member of this family she will adopt is her big sister. Sponsored by PSCA, the Big-Lil' Sis program provides sophomores a chance to take freshmen "under their wings." The relationship usually begins with a letter during the summer or a welcoming gift on moving in day, but the big "kick-off" is the Big/Lil' Sis picnic where "sisters" compete in fun games. As water balloons are tossed and girls struggle in the famous "tug-of-war," friendships develop and a new family is adopted!

Drama

Under the direction of Drama teacher Rick Rottschaefer, Peace College Drama has taken on new dimensions. The Spring production of "H.M.S. Pinafore" and Fall production of "Spoon River Anthology," both ambitious undertakings for the young Drama Department, were exceptional. The performances by our own aspiring actresses and local actors were top-notch. Also to be commended were set and costume designers for their excellent job of setting the perfect atmosphere for two truly superb productions.

Christmas Chain

The Christmas chain is one of Peace's most exciting and memorable truditions. Sometimes the Peace girls get loaded down with final exams and forget what the Christmas spirit is all about. The Christmas chain unites the entire Peace student body as one family. The residents of Ross hegin the chain by joining hands one by one and then moving on to the other dorms to add on to the chain. Once the chain is complete, they all surround the fountain ond sing Christmas carols. It's this type of togetherness that unites the student body and helps to creute a real Christmas spirit.

Not only do the women who attend Peoce have the opportunity to feast early at the special dinner; they also are invited to a Christmas reception at the home of Dr. Frazier. Dr. Frazier welcomes his friends, and of course his Peace family, into his home for hor d'oeuvres and delectable desserts. Everyone is surely in the Christmas spirit by now.

Geneva Carlton

Geneva can always be seen smiling brightly whether it be on her way to class or a PSGA meeting. Geneva is currently the president of PSCA, and as acting president, she is always willing to help with a problem or just sit and chat with a Peace girl. She may also be recognized for high academic achievements. She is presently vice-president of Phi Theta Kappa, a member of Sigma Delta Mu, and on the Dean's List. Geneva's most outstanding qualities are her warm heart and comforting smile.

A LIFETIME OF FRIENDS

Although the education Peace girls receive is important, no one will forget the friendships that are formed while here at school. These friendships are strong bonds which lost a lifetime, but it is the silly, little things which are so special. No one will ever forget what her roommate looks like when she wakes up at eight o'clock on a Monday morning. Or, who can forget filling out her wardrobe by sneaking into a suitemate's closet, traveling four hours in a cramped car to see an Alabama concert, meeting that special guy at a frat with your best friend cheering you on, studying in large groups with buckets of popcorn and Pepsi for Mr. Thomas' final exam, keeping your roommate awake while she types your Western Civ. term paper, road-tripping to Chapel "Thrill" for a night of adventure, getting "dressed up" every Wednesday for Chapel, or dunking that special friend in the fountain for her birthday? All of these memories, which began as we freshmen tried to make ourselves comfortable in our new home, come to an end as we sophomores graduate as one big, happy family in May.

One song which appropriately expresses our love for one another is Friends, by Michael W. Smith.

Friends

Michael Smith

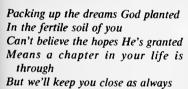

When graduation day arrives in May, although the close of two wonderful years will have arrived, the friendships will live on. For friends, like a song, will play on forever in our hearts, and the memories these friends create will play on forever in our minds, like the last song that is heard on the radio. One last look.

As important as friends are to each of us while at Peace, the lasting memories which are captured on film make reminiscing in years to come possible.

It won't even seem you've gone
Cause our hearts in big and small ways

Will keep the love that keeps us strong

Therefore, we hope that you will treasure your two years here at Peace, and the friendships which you made. And, also, that when you can no longer see that special person everyday, you will be able to pick up your old yearbook and remember, as if it were yesterday.

We always knew we could depend on two special people to dedicate their time to help us type copy. A Peace Girl Comes Home

Dr. Gail Godwin, a 1957 alumna of Peace College and 1959 graduate of UNC, was here from February 10-14 as the Goodman Visiting Scholar. Dr. Godwin, who holds a Ph.D. from the University of Iowa, is an author of national significance. Her fifth novel, A Mother and Two Daughters, sold nearly two million copies and was on The Best Seller List for four months. Her sixth novel, The Finishing School, has received critical acclaim and has recently been published in paperback.

Dr. Godwin lives in Woodstock, New York, and she interrupted her busy writing schedule to spend a week with Peace students. Since oll Peace Freshmen had read A Mother and Two Daughters, they were excited to have Dr. Godwin teach a class in which they could ask questions and talk informally with her.

Dr. Godwin also did a reading for the public and conducted a workshop for high school and college creative-writing teachers. In all activities, Dr. Godwin was interesting, witty, and gracious, exuding the charm of the Peace girl who discovered that she could go home again.
